Coping with COVID: Pets in the Pandemic

Sunday, February 28, 2021

7:00 PM via Zoom

There is no question having a pet in your home during the best of times can bring joy. In more trying times, as we are experiencing now during the global pandemic, pets can offer more than just companionship. Many people are finding their pets are offering mental as well as physical health benefits to help cope during this time. Join us for a fun and interactive online event featuring...your pets! Our conversation will cover topics including:

- The rise of pet adoptions in response to the social isolation associated with COVID-19
- The mental health benefits of owning a pet, especially during the pandemic
- Story-sharing of how your pets have helped ‘make it better’ for you and your family
